

Site Manager Spotlight

Baltimore Green Space's site managers and volunteers put so much into their communities. The gardens, forest patches, and sitting parks that neighborhoods enjoy wouldn't exist without them. As thanks, we would like to highlight Ashlie Kauffman, Site Manager for the Remington Village Green (protected in 2015):

"Being a part of the Baltimore Green Space land trust gives us the security of being a permanent part of the neighborhood, which now means that we can expand the garden's role and try to foster wellness in our community for the long-term. We can be more than just a vibrant space to plant vegetables; we can now be vibrant in terms of our impact. We can do something simple like plant a tree that will fruit three years from now, but we can also host events and activities that can become yearly gatherings for neighbors to come together, learn, and have fun."~ Ashlie Kauffman

On Dec.1 we ask you to support our #givingtuesday fundraising campaign so that we can continue preserving our community's gardens! Go here to donate and don't forget to spread the word on Facebook and Instagram.
